

Investment Objective

The Briefcase Balanced Multi-Asset ETF Model Portfolio aims to provide investors with attractive returns consistent with a 'diversified balanced' investment strategy, encompassing:

- A strategic asset allocation process leveraging a well-researched framework built by Briefcase to optimise different return sources, such as domestic and global equities, fixed income, alternatives and cash.
- Efficient and cost-effective implementation via Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) from multiple, reputable issuers.
- Rebalancing only when required, typically no more than four times per annum.

1. Information correct as of 30 April 2025. The quoted Management Expense Ratio excludes GST and applies to investments made via MDA. Fees may vary for investments made via SMA and investors should refer to the relevant PDS to confirm the applicable fees.

2. The performance information presented is based upon an out-of-sample backtest and does not represent actual results. Performance is therefore indicative only and is calculated by deriving a new strategic asset allocation (SAA) every 3 months using Briefcase's proprietary optimisation methodology, from and including the starting month. SAA's do not contain future data and therefore cannot be influenced by future outcomes, hence considered to be out-of-sample. Similarly, the parameters that underlie the optimisation process are derived out-of-sample for consistency. Performance is based on end of day ETF prices inclusive of dividends. Portfolio yield is net of Briefcase MER. For dates prior to ETF listings on ASX, prices and returns are proxied using the underlying benchmark. Model ETF portfolios are rebalanced mid month following each quarter end. Performance is net of Briefcase MER but does not consider transaction costs, taxes and individual circumstances. Past performance is not indicative of future results.
